UIS is accredited to ISO/IEC 17025:2005 for Calibration

Our Professional Technicians are routinely trained and updated in ISA and EPRI standards.

ISO/TS16949 calls for external laboratories used for inspection, testing, or calibration to be accredited to ISO 17025. This standard certifies that the laboratory is able to provide technically competent services, to operate an effective quality system, and to generate technically valid calibration and test results. Our tools are calibrated and are traceable to NIST (National Institute of Standards and Technology). As a customer you are assured of precise, accurate, and repeatable results along with enhanced data reporting. Uncertainty is not taken into account when statements of compliance are made.

Accredited calibrations with or without uncertainties are not provided unless requested in writing.
